

Professor Amos Grünebaum
Director of Obstetrics
Chief of Labor and Delivery
NewYork Presbyterian Weill Cornell Medical Center

Professor at Weill Cornell Medical College
New York, NY USA

Professor Dr.med. Amos Grünebaum is a professor at New York Weill Medical College.

He is the director of obstetrics and the chief of labor and delivery at NewYork Presbyterian Weill Cornell Medical Center.

Professor Grünebaum completed medical school in Cologne, Germany and trained in the US both in obstetrics and gynecology as well as maternal-fetal medicine (high risk pregnancy).

Professor Grünebaum has been interested for a long time in improving the safety for mothers and newborns both in the hospital as well as in homebirths.

He has published extensively on these subjects and has over 45 peer-reviewed articles and dozens of abstract on these and other subjects.

In addition to his clinical interest, Professor Grünebaum has also been involved for over 20 years in improving communication on the internet for couples trying to get pregnant and those who are already pregnant.